

Wanda Pełka

DOI: lack

Vol no: 12

Return to issue

Return to editions list

The cooperation of enterprises within clusters is now seen as an effective mechanism for activating regions. A cluster-based development policy makes it possible to create a coherent system within which cooperation between enterprises, scientific and research institutions and public authorities takes place. In this system, the scientific sector supports the competitiveness of enterprises by providing innovation, education responds to the needs of the labor market, improving the competitiveness and innovation of companies – allows to attract foreign investment.

Wanda Pełka, Klastry w polityce rozwoju województwa mazowieckiegoPobierz