

Andrzej Gawryszewski

DOI: lack

Vol no: 5

Return to issue

Return to editions list

During the 20th century, Warsaw's area increased 15 times, but its population only 3 times. The population grew, with the exception of the post-war baby boom period, thanks to the migratory influx of new residents.

Andrzej Gawryszewski, Rozwój demograficzno-społeczny Warszawy w XX wiekuPobierz