

Krzysztof Spirzewski

DOI: 10.21858/msr.23.03

Vol. no: 23

Return to issue

Return to editions list

We now know that the 2007 financial crisis could have been averted if awareness of the risks and their future consequences had been more complete. Today's technological developments in the banking sector are accompanied by the traditional risks of a banking panic, when the majority of a bank's customers simultaneously decide to withdraw their deposited money. As a result, the risk of liquidity loss rises sharply.

Krzysztof Spirzewski — Wpływ nowych technologii na ryzyko utraty płynności sektora bankowego
Pobierz