Remains of the Transatlantic Broadcast Radio Station. Preservation problems, educational and tourism potential | 1

Bartłomiej Klęczar

DOI: lack

Vol no: 7

Return to issue

Return to editions list

The erection of the Transatlantic Broadcasting Radio Station was the largest radio communications investment in the history of the Second Republic. The installation had a huge range and used state-of-the-art solutions. Its area became the scene of bloody battles during the defense of Warsaw in September 1939. In early 1945, the Transatlantic Broadcasting Radio Station was completely destroyed.

Bartłomiej Klęczar, Pozostałości Nadawczej Radiostacji Transatlantyckiej. Problemy konserwatorskie, potencjał edukacyjny i turystycznyPobierz