

Piotr Banaszyk, Barbara Borusiak, Bogusław Fiedor, Marian Gorynia, Małgorzata Słodowa-
Hełpa

DOI: 10.21858/msr.45.01

Vol. no: 45

Return to issue

Return to editions list

The article sets three groups of objectives. The first article concerns the preparation of a diagnosis regarding the impact of economic growth and socio-economic development processes on the natural environment. The second includes an outline of the normative approach to the idea of global rationality, the economy of moderation and the common good. The third group of objectives focuses on defining recommendations for economic policy in light of the diagnosis and the proposed normative approach. The main method used in the study is the critical analysis of the literature on the subject.

MSR_45_01_Banaszyk_Borusiak_Fiedor_Gorynia_Slodowa_Helpa-1Pobierz