

Wiesław Rokicki, Ewelina Gawell

DOI: 10.21858/msr.19.10

Vol no: 19

Return to issue

Return to editions list

In modern design architecture there is an interesting trend of developing highly complex spatial systems, inspired by patterns inspired by the natural world. As a result, visually innovative solutions are being created, and what is important from an engineering point of view, also technologically efficient. The logic behind shaping “bionic” architecture is aimed at, among others, the rational use of materials and energy.

Wiesław Rokicki, Ewelina Gawell, Diagramy Voronoi – modele badawcze struktur prętowych w optymalizacji architektoniczno-konstrukcyjnejPobierz